Snow White

Once upon a time, there lived a () Queen and her () step-daughter, Princess Snow White. The Queen's () mirror told her that Snow White was the () of them all, so she () ordered her death. However, the hunter she sent to kill Snow White changed his mind and instead told Snow White (Adverb) to run (Adverb) into the forest. Snow White ( ) ran until she got to the cottage of () dwarves, who took her in with them as long as she cooked and cleaned () for them. Everything went (), until the ( peddler, Snow White was not suspicious and took a (Adjective) bite. (Adverb), Snow White fell to the ground, supposedly dead. The dwarves put her body (Adverb) in a (Adjective coffin for all to see, as her beauty was too () to be buried. One day, a prince rode and saw her ( were married (adverb) afterwards. And they all lived (Adverb) ever after.
