The Fox and The Crow by Aesop

A Fox once saw a Crow _____ Verb - Base Form _____ off with a piece of _____ Noun _____ in its _____ Body Part _____ and settle on a branch of a tree.

"That's for me, as I am a Fox," said Master Reynard, and he walked up to the foot of the tree.

"Good day, Mistress Crow," he cried. "How well you are looking today: how glossy your _____ Body Parts _____; how bright your _____ Body Part _____. I feel sure your voice must surpass that of other birds, just as your figure does; let me hear but one song from you that I may greet you as the _____ Title _____ of Birds."

The Crow lifted up her head and began to caw her best, but the moment she opened her mouth the piece of _____ Noun _____ fell to the ground, only to be snapped up by Master Fox.

"That will do," said he. "That was all I wanted. In exchange for your _____ Noun _____ I will give you a piece of advice for the future: "Do not trust flatterers."
