The Giant

I slowly opened my eyes and looked around. All I could see around me were thousands of _____ Adjective _____ trees with thick _____ Adjective _____ branches. How did I end up here? I tried to remember the last place I was before I woke up but nothing could explain how I ended up lying on the ground in the middle of a forest. I sat up and began looking around to find some clues to what happened. I turned my head to the left and had to hold in a scream because standing right beside me was a _____ Adjective _____ monster. Scrambling backwards I realized that he was _____ Adjective - Comparative _____ than some of the trees in the forest. His head towered so high that it looked like he might get lost in some of the clouds in the sky. His skin was green and looked _____ Adjective _____ just like a leather jacket. He had jagged, red scars all over his hands, arms and face that made it look like he had just gotten into a fight. The clothes that covered this monster were also looking a little torn up. The _____ Adjective _____ _____ Adjective _____ pants were _____ Verb - Past Participle _____ just below his knees and were covered in _____ Adjective _____ stains the size of my entire body! His shirt looked like it used to be white but now it was closer to the colour of a _____ Adjective _____ puddle just after a rainstorm. The monster looked down at me with big blue eyes, each the size of a beach ball and began to open his mouth. There only seemed to be about five teeth in his mouth and they were extremely _____ Adjective _____, sticking out of his pink gums in many different directions. I was starting to become extremely _____ Adjective _____ as the giant leaned his _____ Adjective _____, bald head towards me. He came so close that I could see a few brown, _____ Adjective _____ hairs sticking out from his ears and the top of his head. I was just about to run away when he said to me, "I know why you are here and if you want to stay alive you must come with me!"
