Mel's Journey to Graduation

One day, Principal Mills had a bright idea. She decided to lead students by being a student herself! She enrolled at Liberty University's _____ Adjective School. Like a good student, she created her own workspace, bought her _____ Noun, and put her _____ Noun to much good overuse. She worked by day and studied by night. Her husband did the laundry and her children slept soundly as she typed paper after paper. No rest for the Principal gone student on holiday. She packed the _____ Noun - Plural in the _____ Noun with Mamaw, Papaw, and headed to _____ Proper Noun. The children played with _____ Proper Noun - Plural. Mamaw _____ Verb - Past Tense and tended to the children. Her husband Drew cheered her own from afar in Lakeport. _____ Proper Noun wondered if she her way to school. She attended _____ Noun - Plural, completed _____ Noun - Plural, and studied at night. On the weekend, like any _____ Adjective student, she _____ Verb - Past Tense reruns of Downton Abbey. Once home Drew continued laundry and the children made a paperchain to countdown the days to graduation. Graduation Day finally came and all the family cheered, HOORAY! Happy Graduation Day!
