A very odd dream

The Adjective Location looked safe enough to Adjective Girl's name as she stood on it's Noun-Plural. She had been dared to Verb-Base Form through the place by her friend, Bay's name. Said friend stood by her side, holding her hand in his own. Boy's name himself had promised to come along, and it was clear that he was scared of it. "Boy's name?" Girl's name asked , turning to look at him, "You're Verb-Present ends in ING. Are you afraid?" He responded by Adverb shaking his head and going so far as to take the first step into the woods. Girl's name merely rolled her eyes before following him, leaves Verb-Present ends in ING underfoot. Little did the two children know, this fantasy forest was, in reality, a place of death.
