TSA, Not Today

I was going to the Airport to gat a flight to London. I was thrilled but I only Had 1 hour to make the international flight which was pushing it. Then, I got to the security screening area. There was this very nice looking heavy set woman. Or at least I thought nice. I put my bag on the _____ Noun machine and wait to go through the scanner. I put my arms up and wait for the _____ Noun to fly past me. I make it through. However, my bag was not so lucky. I left a water bottle in. I couldn't believe what they did to me. The _____ Noun that I was a terrorist or something was too _____ Adjective to handel. The woman began to pat me down in addition to the X-Ray. First, she felt my private area and then gasped and said, "Ms. we're gonna have to ask you to go into this room for additional screening. I thought I would never be _____ Verb - Past Participle. I get into this room where I'm told to drop my pants. _____ Determiner! I scream. "No way". Finally, I do and had to get into this rubber _____ Determiner like thing. I was told to lay _____ Noun on the table for a cavity search. TOTALLY illegal. The woman said, please bend over and cough so I can be sure that you are clean. Let me add, this woman was _____ Verb - Present Tense me. After her _____ Noun for a while, your clean Miss, please leave. I'll tell you one thing, I was not _____ Adjective at the TSA. I sent an _____ Adjective letter to get an auto reply email apologizing. I was very _____ Adjective and will never forget it.
