super cody's bad day at school

hi my name is super cody and i am having the worst day ever.first i woke up late and missed the bus then i burned my tongue on my coffee while rushing to get to school and then i was mistaken and called by the wrong name by a former math teacher named miss.reed. then i got into school and i was still half awake so when i was checked in and scanned i had to go to a different room than normal and to my surprise my best friend had changed back to her old gothic ways when i had just changed out of my gothic clothes and just wiped my black eye liner off god why me and why at this time i asked my self to which i got no reply then my friends thought i was high but i just had a cafeine rush and now that it is waring off i feel horrible and it is only first period. so imagine how i will feel the rest of the day just awful and my lunch is at eleven fifty five so immagine how i feel . reffering back to earlier in my story when i took my gothic clothes off it was because the people around me are ignorent buffoons who would call me all types of names and would call it emo instead of what it really was and then thsat would anger me so mutch that i end up having the worst day ever in this wierd school that feels more like a _____ Adjective to me.
