All of a sudden, a _____Adjective_____ storm started to come with thunder, lightning and wind. The wind was so _____Adjective_____ it blew him all the way to _____Proper Noun_____! The boy was a bit scared because he didn't know exactly where he was or how to speak Chinese so he couldn't ask for help. As he wondered the streets of China he ran into a man who _____Verb - Past Tense_____ American and could speak English. He said, Mr., can you please help me, I was _____Verb - Present ends in ING_____ in my hot air balloon and a storm came and blew me all the way to China and now I dont know how to get home. The man said, well little boy, what's your name? The boy replied, my name is Peter Myer. Then man said, Would your father happen to be Scott Meyer? The boy replied, yes actually that is my father! The man said, Ive known your father for many years, we used to go to flight school together and I know where you live!. It just so happens I am testing a new blimp and I am heading home now, would you like to come with me and I can drop you off? The boy said Oh yes definitely, thank you so much! So the man and the little boy begin their journey home. The little boy tells his father's friend all about his hot air balloon and the man is very impressed. The little boy has a great time eating candy and hot chocolate along the way. The man even teaches him how to steer the blimp . In the end Peter's parent are very happy to see that he is safe and has returned home. They are grateful that his father's friend took care of him and they are also very happy to reunite with him. They all have dinner together and tell their story.
