More stories at WordBlanks.com

Mother's Day

1. Proper Noun _____
2. Proper Noun _____
3. Proper Noun _____
4. Proper Noun _____
5. Noun _____
6. Noun _____

Mother's Day

One day, Mom was sitting down on the black, slick couch watching TV when suddenly a commercial came on about a really good meal. So she got her computer, typed in what she saw: Oven Roasted Bacon Tenderloin Steak. She clicked on the recipe and printed it out. She went to the oven, preheated it to 375 degrees, and then went to the fridge. She got eggs, milk, baking soda, vinegar, bacon, and some beer. She then went to the pantry and grabbed some Pensey's spices. She grabbed a bowl, and mixed all the ingredients. When she was done stirring, she put the bowl in a container and poured it, sprinkling on the tenderloin steak. She then put it in the oven. 1 hour later, the oven beeped. She pulled out the juicy, brown steak. Right then, _____Proper Noun_____, _____Proper Noun_____, and _____Proper Noun_____ came home from _____Proper Noun_____ _____Noun_____ _____Noun_____. She put a crayon in her pocket.

She said to dad,"Hey Geoff, look what I made. I found it on a commercial."

Dad said,"Hmmm, that looks really juicy, and good. So Brayden set the table and unusually the steak started bubbling. They all ate it at the same time and then, the steak pulled all of them into a weird vortex. It turns out, that weird vortex was a mirror of reality. It was all crayons, markers, colored pencils, and pens to build and draw this city.

Mom said,"Where are we?"

Dad said," Dunno."

So they traveled along to their house, since they were somehow at Jacob's house. That also looked like crayons, and colored pencils. When they went into their house, the kitchen, family room, living room, all bedrooms, all bathrooms and every single part of the house was colored and drawn. Somehow the steak wasn't there. So they went into the basement to look down there. There were a bunch of evil animals down there sleeping and it was really dark. Dad accidentally stepped on a tiger and slowly it woke up. At first he thought it was a pillow so he just kept jumping on it. But then the tiger gave a loud ROAR and chased dad up the stairs, out of the house, into the street and got eaten. Next, Brayden walked through, careful not to step on any wildcats or poisonous bugs or animals. But then he stepped on a rubber ducky. That woke up the lion, and the poisonous dart frog right next to him. The other animals just snorted. The dart frog leaped towards Brayden and paralyzed him, and the lion just ate him off .

Syd and Mom were trembling with fear. Syd went and she saw something brown and burnt. She then realized it was the steak that Mom made earlier. She whispered to mom that she saw the steak. She said I'll try to get it. She ran and leaped over the poisonous dart frogs and tigers and lions. She grabbed a hold of the steak. She yelled I GOT IT! Unfortunately, all the animals woke up. They pounced at her and she threw the steak to Mom just before she got paralyzed and eaten. Mom caught the steak and ran up the stairs as fast as she could. But then, the crayon she put into her pocket fell out and made a red mark on the floor. She picked it up and realized that she could use it to draw since this world was made out of drawings. She quickly drew a padlock on the door and shut it tight.

She then ran out the door and without thinking straight, she tripped and her face splattered right into her face and then she felt this weird feeling. She kept spinning and spinning and spinning until the drawings slowly turned back into reality. She ended up at her house. There, dad, Syd, and Brayden were eating the steak and Brayden said,

" Hey Mom, this is probably the only steak I have liked in my whole life!" Everyone laughed there and Mom suddenly thought, how did this happen? She then told herself to never make food that was advertised on commercial.

THE END THE END THE END THE END

©2026 WordBlanks.com · All Rights Reserved.