

Help Sara Write Her Vows

1. Adjective

---

Help Sara Write Her Vows

Scott, when I first met you I thought, "Wow what a [noun]!" Over the next few months, we [past tense verb] and one [adjective describing temperature] night, I said [exclamation]!

Scott, you are [_____Adjective_____]. You are my [noun], my number one [profession], and the future [noun] of my children.

And I vow, going into our lives as [noun] and [noun], to be the best thing that's ever happened to you.

I vow to [verb] you as you deserve to be [past tense verb], even when you're wearing [article of clothing].

I vow to support your interests and nourish your passions: from [activity] to [type of food] to [verb ending in - ing] [plural noun].

I vow to take you [adverb] when you need to be taken seriously and to laugh with you the rest of the time:
because [abstract concept] is funnier with you by my side.

I vow to [verb] you when you are injured, ill or upset, or just when you forget to [verb] yourself. Which reminds me, did you remember to put on [noun] and drink [beverage] today?

I vow to [verb] every [noun] you [verb], [verb] every [noun] you [verb], and [verb] every [noun] you [verb] - even the ones that are [adjective].

And I vow to remain by your side as we grow [adjective], to decorate your walker, clean the drool off your [color] [article of clothing] and dance with you to those old-timey [type of music] songs at the Old Folks' [type of party].