Love Letter to an Old Friend

Dear First Name of a Person,

I remember our Adjective encounter in Location as is it were yesterday. Your Article of Clothing was the perfect shade of Color, and I didn't even care that its Article of Clothing was stained with Liquid. When I heard your Noun, I knew you had the perfect Nationality accent and a Adjective cadence that would put the greatest Occupation to shame. Your Adjective, Color hair immediately put me in a spell.

When you spoke to me, you were Adjective at first, with a tongue as Adjective as a Noun which is a trait I Verb - Base Form. But when we were better acquainted, you told me of your Adjective struggles and of how you lost your family in a Noun. I felt I Verb - Past Tense your loss as I fell into your Adjective, Color eyes. I begged you not to Verb - Base Form and told you that Adjective days were ahead. That was the day we became Noun - Plural, the day I Verb - Past Tense in love with you.

It has been Number years, and my love for you has only grown more Adjective. Although we lost touch for about a[n] Measurement of Time- Singular, I tried desperately to Verb - Base Form you again.
Even in your absence, I felt the Emotion- as a Noun of your presence. It may sound Adjective, but you are the Noun of my dreams! Each day, you grow more Adjective and drag me deeper into your Noun. Tell me I'm not crazy when I say I think you feel Adjective about me. Do me a great Noun and go steady with me!

Forever Adjective,

Your Name
