Scene 2

Scenario: Outside of Frinks Lab. Professor Frink and Squeaky Voiced Teen (Jeremy Freedman) stand beside the Frinkosonic.

Frink: This is quite possibly my greatest ever invention.

SVT: What is it Mr Frink?

Frink: Why, its a time machine my good man, behold.

SVT:

How does it work Mr Frink?

Frink: Our world consists of two dimensions, length and width. Now, if you imagine that there was a hypothetical third dimension, including what I will call, depth, then imagine a fourth dimension that also includes time...

SVT: ???

Frink: Do they not teach you anything in school? That should be obvious to even the most dim-witted individual who holds an advanced degree in hyperbolic topology. Basically, you drive this car very fast until mwa-hey-hey, you arrive at your future destination. Its all powered by everyones favourite transuranic radioactive chemical element, plutonium.

SVT: Mr Frink theres someone coming.

Enter Jasper with his paddle.

Jasper: Stealing my plutonium. Thats a paddlin. Building a time machine. Thats a paddlin. Being a teenager with a squeaky voice. Thats a paddlin.

Frink: Good glayven! Quickly Jeremy into the car, you must not let this car fall into Jaspers hands. Your future, your wifes future and your childrens future depend upon it.

SVT: Wait! Wait! Wait! I get a girlfriend? A real girlfriend who is human and is in no way inflatable? (Looks at and speaks to the palm of his hand) Well, we both knew that this relationship couldnt last forever, I will never forget you. (SVT gets into the car) Goodbye Mr Frink!

SVT starts the engine and the car blows up.

Frink: Mw-hai! I think I may need to make one or two adjustments...

Scene 3

Scenario: Bart, Milhouse and Martin are in a wooded area and Barney is passed out drunk behind some bushes.

Bart-as-an-old-man voiceover: I was ten for only the seventh consecutive year the first time I saw a drunk man. It happened in the summer of nineteen-ninety-four. Me and my buddies, Milhouse and Martin, had gotten it into our heads to go on an adventure and had packed our things and headed on over to Shelbyville.

Martin: There he is! I see him! Look! Look over there! I see him! I see him!

Bart-as-an-old-man voiceover: None of us could breathe. Somewhere under those bushes was the rest of Barney Gumble. The booze had caused Barney to soil his Keds just like it had knocked the life out of his body.

Milhouse: Im not sure about this Bart. My mom brings this type of guy home all of the time, I hear them making noises in her bedroom, then they leave and then she cries.

Bart: Shut up Milhouse, this is cool. Look at him lying there, it is a thing of wonder. Have you ever seen such a beautiful site? If we dont work hard and we dont stick in at school then this could one day be us. Can you imagine it? The American dream is ours just for the taking.

Enter Nelson Muntz and Kierney. Nelson points at Barney.

Nelson: HA HA!

Bart: Hey this is our drunk we saw him first!

Nelson: Yeah, what are you three wussies going to do about it? Hes my drunk now. Hey Kearney, get me a stick, I want to poke my drunk.

Bart (pulling out his catapult): You cant have him.

Nelson: Give me that catapult before you do something stupid.

Bart: No Nelson, we found him and were keeping him. So why dont you and your primate go and get bent.

Nelson (backing away): We're gonna getcha for this. We're not gonna forget this if that's what you think.

Martin: I hate to contradict you but it is most probable that you will forget. The human brain forgets seventy percent of what it learned within six days. It forgets forty percent within twenty minutes.

Nelson: Oh we wont forget. Theres wedgies with your names written on them. This is big time, baby.

Bart-as-an-old-man voiceover: In the end neither of our gangs got the drunk. We hung around for five minutes more, lost interest and then went home.
