DragonCraft

Once upon a time in the far off land of there lived a happy flying same Animal who loved adventure. She loved flying through the worlds of beautiful blocks looking at others amazing creations. castles, sailing vessels and mass tracts of farming land were just some of the worlds she spent her time exploring. One day, she decided to play the game for survival and go on a adventure!
Indeed, she had done so much sightseeing that she was good at navigations; but, she seriously lacked other necessary survival skills. After a few attempts at the game, she failed miserably and got really discouraged. He friend, the minion, challenged her to attend a survival training camp. She accepted her friend challenge and enlisted the help of her a parent or guardian to help with her daily practice.
The happy flying attended training sessions on everything from fire breathing to strategic maneuvering. She met a super helpful training guard who protected the knowledge and guided her to the right training sessions.
Wow did her time at survival training camp pay off. In no time at all, she was slaying, growin her own and even conquering the famed Noun - Plural
