The Worst Bike Ride of Timmy Turner's Life

On a _____ day in Sunnyville, a very smart and _____ boy, Timmy Turner, was riding his bicycle. Suddenly , the little boy fell over a rock. He looked down, and he realized the rock looked very _____ ! He thought that it was very peculiar for such a _____ young boy to fall over such a _____ rock. He was very confused indeed. A couple minutes later, a _____ young lady, about the boy's age, came strolling by. "My my, what have you gotten yourself into?" She exclaimed. "While, all I was doing was riding my bike and looking up at the _____ sky, then I tripped on that rock while riding my bike!" He answered. Soon, the girl was walking him home, and looking at all of the _____ grass. The grass made her happy, after all , the color was so _____ ! She figured the boy may like it too, but it seemed he was more interested in the _____ chipmunks in the tree. She then decided that the boy was a little too _____ for her liking, and ditched him. The _____ boy was quite sad about all of this, so he decided to go to his room and cry. He vowed to never think of this _____ day again. When he opened his eyelids the next morning, it was like the whole thing had never happened. He looked around the _____ room, and a smile spread across his _____ lips. Everything looked normal, he was going to be okay. Luckily he wasn't scarred too bad by the _____ woman. He rolled out of bed and walked down to the kitchen. His mom had cooked him an _____ breakfast! He was very _____ about it! As he looked down at his leg while he was sitting down, Timmy noticed a _____ scratch on his left calf. Suddenly, the memories of the previous day came flooding back into his mind. How _____, he thought, to think about that mess when he was planning on having a _____ day with his family! He wept to his _____ Adjective mother and she tried to console him. He went to watch a movie and fell asleep on the very _____ Adjective couch. In his deep sleep the memories of yesterday appeared again, even more vividly! It seemed to Timmy that this day of what what supposed to be a simple bike ride turned into a mess that would haunt him for a lifetime.....
