A Happy Day

Once Upon a Time, there was a           Noun          , a           Noun           and a           Noun          . They went for a           Adverb                     Verb - Base Form           in the           Noun          . The           Noun - Plural           were           Verb - Present                     ends in ING          , and it was a           Adjective           day.

The End.
