

What your life will be like as a Nyab

1. Choose A Name Of The Person In The Room
2. Choose A Name Of The Person In The Room
3. Choose A Name Of The Person In The Room
4. Choose A Name Of The Person In The Room
5. Verb
6. Adjective
7. Verb
8. Number
9. Noun
10. Choose A State
11. Meat
12. Verb - Present Tense
13. Adjective
14. Article Of Clothing
15. Name Of Meng Maos Sibling
16. Pronoun

What your life will be like as a Nyab

Diana,

Tomorrow when you leave your mother and father's home, you will become a Nyab. Base on _____ Choose a name of the person in the room _____, _____ Choose a name of the person in the room _____, _____ Choose a name of the person in the room _____,

_____ Choose a name of the person in the room _____ and both Mary's experiences we will tell you what your life will be like as a Nyab.

The moment you step into your in-law's home, you will be _____ Verb _____ to do all the dishes, _____ Adjective _____ the dirty toilet, prepare meals and repeat it all over again day after day. Do not _____ Verb _____ for one second that because you and Mao live far away you will not have to do any of these tasks. In fact, they will expect you to do

_____ Number _____ times the workload to compensate it. What do we mean by that?

Well ... you will be expected to make _____ Noun _____ meals like _____ Choose a State _____ King Crab Legs, _____ Meat _____ and Larb for them and their friends. When _____ Verb - Present Tense _____ the toilet, you will need a _____ Adjective _____ eraser brush, lots of bleach and _____ Article of Clothing _____. That's because you were not home to clean it everyday so the bacteria builds. Lastly, you will have to do all those dishes. Do not expect any of the sisters or cousins to help! Yes, that's right _____ Name of Meng Maos Sibling _____ and her sister are now Queens. You are their servant!

But

don't _____ Pronoun _____, you will soon learn to feed on your ego and live to be praised by how wonderful of a job you are doing being a nyab!

Good Luck!!

Love your Friends!