Helping

It was a Adjective day in the habitat. The your animal sat way up in a type of plant or tree. Suddenly there was a loud noise!

The your animal jumped out of his body covering. He looked around the another habitat and saw a huge predator. "Help," cried the mean predator.

"I have a big thorn in my type of foot!" The your animal tried to be Adjective and climbed slowly down the tree. What could I possibly do? he thought. I am only a speed your animal.

Then he remembered what his relative had taught him. "You should put your paw in warm liquid." The the predator ran to the body of water. He looked at his number type of foot and found the injured one. With a loud splash he put his type of foot in the body of water. "Ahhhhhhhhhhhh! That liquid is so temperature!" your animal was able to think quickly. He grabbed a big bucket of food and poured it over predator body part. He saw that predator was now very emotion. So he way your animal moves back into the habitat as fast as his number legs would carry him. He went back to his type of house and started to chomp on food.
