Pride and Prejudice

IT is a _____ Noun _____ Adverb _____ acknowledged, that a single _____ Noun _____ in possession of a good _____ Noun _____ must be in want of a _____ Noun _____.

However little known the _____ Noun - Plural _____ or _____ Noun - Plural _____ of such a _____ Noun _____ may be on his first entering a neighbourhood, this truth is so well fixed in the minds of the surrounding _____ Noun - Plural _____, that he is considered as the rightful _____ Noun _____ of some one or other of their daughters.

``My dear Mr. _____ Name _____," said his lady to him one day, ``have you heard that _____ Location _____ is let at last ?"

Mr. Bennet replied that he had not.

``But it is," returned she; ``for Mrs. Long has just been here, and she told me all about it."

Mr. Bennet made no answer.

``Do not you want to know who has taken it?" cried his wife _____ Adverb _____.

``You want to tell me, and I have no objection to hearing it."

This was _____ Noun enough.

``Why, my _____ Noun, you must know, Mrs. Long says that Netherfield is taken by a young man of large fortune from the north of _____ Location; that he came down on Monday in a chaise and _____ Number to see the place, and was so much delighted with it that he agreed with Mr. _____ Name _____ Adverb; that he is to take possession before Michaelmas, and some of his servants are to be in the house by the end of next week.

``What is his name?"

``Bingley."

``Is he married or single?"

``Oh! single, my dear, to be sure! A _____ Adjective man of large _____ Noun; four or five thousand a year.

What a fine thing for our _____ Noun - Plural!"

``How

so? how can it affect them?"

``My dear Mr. Bennet," replied his wife, ``how can you be so _____ Adjective! You must know that I am thinking of his marrying one of them."

``Is that his design in settling here?"

``Design! nonsense, how can you _____ Verb - Base Form so! But it is very likely that he may fall in love with one of them, and therefore you must _____ Verb - Base Form him as soon as he comes."

``I see no occasion for that. You and the _____ Noun - Plural may go, or you may send them by themselves, which perhaps will be still better; for, as you are as _____ Adjective as any of them, Mr. _____ Name might like you the best of the party."

``My dear, you flatter me. I certainly have had my share of beauty, but I do not pretend to be any thing _____ Adjective now. When a woman has five grown up daughters, she ought to give over thinking of her own beauty."

``In such cases, a woman has not often much beauty to think of."

``But, my dear, you must indeed go and see Mr. Bingley when he comes into the neighbourhood."

``It is more than I engage for, I assure you."

``But consider your _____ Noun - Plural. Only think what an establishment it would be for one of them. Sir

_____ Name and Lady _____ Name are determined to go, merely on that account, for in general, you know they visit no new comers. Indeed you must go, for it will be impossible for us to visit him, if you do not."

``You are over-scrupulous, surely. I dare say Mr. Bingley will be very glad to see you; and I will send a few lines by you to assure him of my hearty consent to his marrying which ever he chuses of the girls; though I must throw in a good word for my _____ Adjective Lizzy."

``I desire you will do no such thing. Lizzy is not a bit better than the others; and I am sure she is not half so _____ Adjective as _____ Name, nor half so good humoured as _____ Name. But you are always giving her the preference."

``They have none of them much to recommend them," replied he; ``they are all _____ Adjective and _____ Adjective like other _____ Noun - Plural; but Lizzy has something more of quickness than her sisters."

Bennet, how can you abuse your own _____ Noun - Plural in such way? You take delight in vexing me. You have no compassion on my poor _____ Noun - Plural."

``You mistake me, my dear. I have a high respect for your _____ Noun - Plural. They are my old friends. I have heard you mention them with consideration these _____ Number years at least."

``Ah! you do not know what I suffer."

``But I hope you will get over it, and live to see many young men of _____ Number thousand a year come into the neighbourhood."

``It will be no use to us if _____ Number such should come, since you will not visit them."

``Depend upon it, my dear, that when there are _____ Number I will visit them all."

Mr. Bennet was so odd a mixture of quick parts, sarcastic humour, reserve, and caprice, that the experience of three and twenty years had been insufficient to make his wife understand his _____ Noun. Her mind was less difficult to develope. She was a _____ Noun of mean understanding, little information, and uncertain temper. When she was discontented, she fancied herself nervous. The business of her life was to get her daughters married; its solace was _____ Verb - Present ends in ING _____ and _____ Noun - Plural _____.
