grandma, but she was wrong. What was I doing? That's right, I was writing this Now back to the story.
I needed to find something, so looked for it, and the most amazing thing happened!
Verb - Non 3rd Person Singular Present IT!!!
Guess what it was??? it was a piece of crispy bacon, which I dropped last Christmas. I thought the dog Verb - Past Tense it, but I guess it didnt. There were many things over there where I always looked for chings, but I didn't like them, so I don't know why I was always looking for them. But this thing I did like. And this Noun, it liked me right back in the face.
But I don't like things that like me. They smell funny. So I made it friends with it, seduced it, then strangled it in the night and ate it's flesh. The bacon wasn't happy with this, and itself to sleep. But then in the plane, he needed to go pee, so I laughed myself to sleep as he himself to wake. He was definitely awake when the plane started to He was definitely going to fall with the plane, and he was definitely going to get lost again. And lost he did get in the eternal sea of human sadness, yrically beautiful without the physical countenance to outweigh it's inherent irony. And that was where he found nimself, lost in an abysmal abyss That was where he found He was taken to new levels of excitement, when he Pronoun himself. Oh what a day Interjection what a Noun But this was to be Verb - Past Participle , because he was not just random. He was with a capital D. But anyway, who cares about the bacon, this story is about me.
