How We Got Engaged

A couple weeks before October 3rd, Josh asked if I'd like to go on a date to celebrate our year of _____ Verb - _____ Present Tense. I eagerly agreed, but thought it was going to be just a _____ Adjective date. Boy was I _____ Adverb! When he came to pick me up for our _____ Adjective anniversary celebration, I answered the door, "Would you like to go on a _____ Noun hunt?" he said with a big grin. I said, "Of _____ Noun!" He held out an _____ Noun with my name on it. I opened it up and inside was a cleverly written riddle. The riddle led me to the first place we met- backstage at _____ Determiner _____ Proper Noun at Brook Hills. We hopped in his _____ Noun and headed to the church. When we got to the church, we walked to the spot where we first exchanged handshakes and _____ Noun - Plural. Sitting close by was another envelope with my name on it. It led us to another place that was special to us, which led to another special place and so on, and so on....

The _____ Noun destination was the restaurant he took me to for our first date a year earlier. (Side Note: Throughout the scavenger hunt I kept wondering if he was going to propose, but I would keep telling myself that it's not even possible. The night before we were talking and he was telling me that he was still trying to save up more _____ Noun for a ring. He said he was even considering selling his _____ Noun _____ Noun, so I knew it couldn't even be possible. Even so, there was a tinny tiny hope.) We got to the _____ Noun, and once we sit down he says, "I know you're probably wondering why I've been keeping my phone from you and acting a little weird today. It's because I didn't want to give this away." He gave me a really pretty _____ Noun. I tried to muster up all of the _____ Noun I could when he gave me that necklace. "I love it! Thank you so much!" I said with a fake _____ Noun. If you ask Josh, he'd tell you I looked so disappointment. I knew at that moment there was absolutely no chance he was going to propose.

After we finished dinner, Josh revealed that there were two _____ Noun _____ to go. The next riddle led us to _____ Proper Noun _____ Proper Noun _____, which is where we went after dinner the year before. When got back in the _____ Noun _____, he gave me the last riddle...

"Now that the day is coming to an end

I'd like to remind you that you truly are my _____ Verb - Present Tense _____ Adverb _____

Thinking back on all the _____ Existential there _____ we share

There is no one else in the _____ Modal _____ who to you will compare

So before we turn in I'd like to make one more stop

To a place you've mentioned that lies near the _____ Noun _____ shop

You take notice every time we pass

And I've noticed you noticing that view is high class

So let's go see _____ Noun _____ from above

Contributing a new memory to our story of love"

I knew exactly which spot he was talking about. It's this _____ Noun _____ just below the Vulcan (a statue in B'ham)

. It's provides a _____ Adjective _____ view of downtown Birmingham. Every time we _____ Verb - Non 3rd Person _____ _____ Singular Present _____ by I notice it. We parked near the trail and got out of the car. He grabbed his _____ Noun _____ and a _____ Noun _____ Noun - Plural _____. It's night at this point; so dark we can barely see a foot in front of us. I asked him if we should be here since the trail was closed. He said, "I already got permission to be here." We walked down the _____ Noun and came to a clearing where we could see downtown perfectly with it's bright pretty _____ Noun - Plural. He set up the chairs and got out his _____ Noun. Then he held out his hand and gave me a _____ Noun. Not an engagement _____ Noun, but a _____ Noun that my mom gave me a while ago. I had accidentally left it home a few months earlier. "How did you get this?" I asked. "I went and got it for you," he replied. That's when I knew he talked to my dad. He didn't say anything else, and started playing and singing a song called " _____ Proper Noun _____ Preposition or subordinating conjunction _____ Determiner " by Ben Rector. It is a favorite of mine. The chorus goes,

"I wanna love you/ forever I do/ I wanna spend all of my _____ Pronoun with you/ I'll carry your _____ Verb and be the wind at your _____ Verb - Past Tense / I wanna spend my forever like that"

I could have melted right then and there. On the last chorus he got down on one knee. When the song ended, he popped the question, "Will you _____ Verb me?" "YES, yes, YES, yes, yes, OMG, YES!" I said like a _____ Adjective _____ Noun _____ Noun on the cheer squad. Josh Appel asked me to be his _____ Noun, and I didn't see it coming. What a wonderful day it was.

I CANNOT wait to be his bride.
