

The Judgement of Paris

1. Noun
2. Proper Noun
3. Verb - Past Participle
4. Noun
5. Noun
6. Adjective
7. Noun
8. Adjective - Ends In Est
9. Noun - Plural
10. Verb
11. Verb - Past Tense
12. Adjective
13. Noun
14. Noun
15. Noun
16. Proper Noun
17. Verb - Past Tense
18. Verb
19. Proper Noun
20. Verb - Past Tense
21. Noun
22. Adverb
23. Adjective

The Judgement of Paris

Zeus was holding a _____ Noun in honor of _____ Proper Noun and Thetis, the future parents of Achilles, wedding. All the gods were _____ Verb - Past Participle, except for Eris, the goddess of _____ Noun, for reasons that should be obvious. Eris, upset by this, decided to ruin the _____ Noun for everyone, and devised a _____ Adjective scheme. When the banquet was going on, she threw a golden _____ Noun, with the words "To The _____ Adjective - Ends in EST" written on it, into the middle of the banquet. Three _____ Noun - Plural stepped forward to _____ Verb it: Hera, the Queen of the gods, Athena, the Wisest of the gods, and Persephone, the most Beautiful of the gods. Since they couldn't agree on who _____ Verb - Past Tense it, they elected to ask an _____ Adjective party, and thus turned to Zeus. Zeus could sense _____ Noun brewing and did what any _____ Noun would do: redirect the trouble towards a _____ Noun. He recommended asking _____ Proper Noun, a Trojan Mortal, on the subject, and the goddesses complied. Within moments after appearing to Paris, they _____ Verb - Past Tense him the question and all began to _____ Verb him. Hera offered him all of _____ Proper Noun and Asia, Athena _____ Verb - Past Tense him the chance to be the greatest _____ Noun in the world, and Persephone offered him someone _____ Adverb. Paris, the _____ Adjective man, chose the pretty girl, and thus began the Trojan War.