From Slavery to Freedom

Inspired by the American and French Revolution, people in St. Domingue (which is Haiti today) started longing for Noun. One man named Toussaint Louverture read about Noun, and Verb - Past Tense to gain it for his country. Toussaint Louverture helped lead a Noun revolution. With geography on their sides, Proper Noun - Plural eventually won their Noun from France. Though he didn't get to see his country be set free, without Proper Noun help- Haiti could still Verb a part of the French empire.
