Jackling Jaguars

There once was a Adjective school called Jackling Elementary. The students were so Adjective that the teachers would give them Number pages of homework every day. The students always were on their Adjective - Superlative behavior and they never said anything Adjective or Adjective. all of the students remembered the school rules which are: Noun, Be Noun, and on Noun on Noun. The students loved coming to school so much, that the teachers would have to give them Noun to go home! The principal was Noun tall! He could reach a Noun that had been kicked on the roof without using a Noun. The students in the school would say that Mr. Broderick is the Noun principal ever! For school lunch all of the kids ate Noun and drank Noun. The students wanted to make sure that they were as Adjective as possible. When the school year finished, all of the students would be so emotion that they would ask for Number more pages of homework to do during the Adjective summer. It is so great to be a Adjective student at Jackling!!
