Magical She

1.	Noun-Feminine
2.	Item Of Clothing
3.	Proper Noun
4.	Noun-Feminine
5.	Verb - Past Tense
6.	Animal
7.	Noun - Item
8.	Adjective
9.	Verb - End With Ed
10.	Adjective
11.	Conjunction
12.	Interjection - Exclamation
13.	Adverb -End With Ly
14.	Noun - Plural
15.	Pronoun - Masculine
16.	Possessive Noun -Person
17.	Preposition

Magical She

Once upon a time, there was a	noun-feminine	that liked to wear	item of clothing	, along with her sparkling shoes. She lived in the ki	ngdom of	Proper Noun . One da	ay, thenoun-fen	ninine Was walking around the enchanted fore	st looking for s	some berries, apples, an	d plums. But, she	Verb - Past Tense
. $A(n)$ came and st	ole her	oun - item . She was th	en left alone in the	e forest. She walked around and found a path covered in	Adjective	pebbles. She follow	ved it, hoping she	would find her way home. Eventually, there came a for	k in the road v	vith a river, and she cou	ldn't decide which	direction to go. She Verb - end with ED for a long to	time, and in the	e end decided to go left.	She came across	a small pond, and she dipped her face to the surface to tal	ke a drink unti	l she noticed something	peculiar. The pon	d suddenly became
! Her heart pound	ed against her	chest with fear,	njunction she sc	reamed,
"! Wha	tever has cause	ed it to be like this?" ,sh	e criedAdvert	end with LY, a cloud of glitter appeared in the air.	Many No	un - Plural appeared in	n the cloud of glitt	er and started yelling at the girl in a strange language. Or	ne of them spo	ke English and explaine	ed, "Could you ple	ase help us, Pronoun - Masculine broke his	wand." The gi	rl was astounded by this	s magical group. "A	A wand?! Why, I am merely a girl!" she cried, "Don't kil	ll me, please!"	She turned around to fi	nd thatPossessi	ve Noun -person body had butterflies flyingPreposition	it. How p	peculiar. She became fri	ghtened and ran a	way. Alas, after a long walk, she saw her palace faint	ly in the distar	nce. She ran towards it,	and rejoiced with	her family once again.

©2025 WordBlanks.com · All Rights Reserved.