Lollipop Caper

That no _____ Adjective lollipop! Thinks he's all that! What do those children see in that delicious sweet red _____ Noun? Who cares if the adults love me, Mr. Caper. I want all the children of the world to fall in love with my sour, acidic, _____ Adjective flavor. I have a plan to make this work. I'll _____ Verb - Base Form into the lollipop factory and change that sweet flavor into sour, then the children will enjoy a new brand of lollipops. Green lollipops are now being made and given to the children. Yes! What's this? The children are _____ Verb - Present ends in ING. The green lollipops must have changed them. The adults blame me for their _____ Adjective behavior. My plan has failed. As I sat there in self-pity, Lollipop almost Verb - Past Tense himself to change the children back to normal. I was worried about Lollipop, but he told me that he'll be fine. He even told me that when the children grow up that they'll love me. I was no longer jealous of Lollipop, in fact I like him. Lollipop taught me to appreciate myself for who I am!
