More stories at WordBlanks.com

Attack of the Living Tacos p1

1. Verb - Past Tense _____

Attack of the Living Tacos p1

[number] days ago, I was sleeping. Thats right. Sleeping. You expected this story to have a\an [adjective] beginning. Don't interrupt again or I'll [verb] you. Anyway, I was sleeping, when suddenly, I woke up. Shut the [noun] up! I went downstairs to have my breakfast. It was [food plural], [food plural], and [food plural]. I ate it, then went to [place] Public School. The morning went on, a perfectly normal day. Until lunch. I sat with my friend, [name of a person] and the shool nerd, [nerdy nickname]. Okay, [same nerdy nickname] sat down with US. It was Taco Thusday. I know what you're thinking. Taco Thusday? What the [noun]? Why not Taco TUESDAY? I didn't make this story up. My principal's dumb. And that's why he didn't become a teacher! laugh scene Yeah. Taco Thursday. [number] minutes earlier, the cafeteria must've put some ingredient in the [food in tacos] because suddenly, [same name of person]'s taco grew to a\an [adjective] size and roared, "Ah, my [food]!" It did some Jumping [plural noun], and then some [verb] ups... and ate Sarah Mc[surname]. Everyone [past tense verb] their [part of body plural] off and ran for the exit. By the time me, [same name of person] and [same nerdy nickname] got to the doors, I knew we were going to be [_____Verb - Past Tense_____].

To be [past tense verb]...

©2026 WordBlanks.com · All Rights Reserved.