Catcher In The Rye

Holden's career at $\qquad$ Prep has been $\qquad$ by his refusal to $\qquad$ himself, and after failing $\qquad$ of his five subjects --he passed only $\qquad$ --he has been forbidden to $\qquad$ to the school after the fall term. The Saturday before $\qquad$ vacation begins, Holden $\qquad$ on Thomsen Hill overlooking the $\qquad$ field, where $\qquad$ plays its annual $\qquad$ match against $\qquad$ Hall. Holden has no interest in the $\qquad$ and hadn't planned to $\qquad$ it at all. He is the manager of the school's team and is supposed to be in New York for a meet, but he lost the team's $\qquad$ on the subway, forcing everyone to $\qquad$ early.

Holden is full of contempt for the prep school, but he looks for a way to "say $\qquad$ " to it. He fondly remembers throwing a $\qquad$ with friends even after it grew $\qquad$ outside. Holden $\qquad$ away from the game to go say goodbye to Mr. $\qquad$ , a former $\qquad$ teacher who is very $\qquad$ and ill with the flu. He $\qquad$ $\qquad$ to Spencer's house, but since he is a heavy $\qquad$ , he has to stop to catch his $\qquad$ at the main gate. At the door, Spencer's $\qquad$ greets Holden $\qquad$ , and he goes in to see his
