And now, the weather!

Good evening, ladies and An unusual pet! This is Your name with a look at our weather!

Today was A word describing what it looks like under your bed and A word describing your socks, with Something that makes a lot of noise reported in the outlying areas. Tonight we can expect partly A word describing how you feel right now skies with a chance of Something that happens once in awhile around midnight. Get ready for a full moon tonight - and bring in those plants and Something you might find in a backyard, as the temperatures may get as low as Your shoe size. More of the same tomorrow until a front rolls in and we can expect it to rain cats and An animal whose name begins with b. We're looking at a(n) A word describing someone in your family weekend with A word describing your hair skies and little chance of Your least favourite weather. And that's our weather! Back to the rest of today's activities.
