Meet Alice

Alice was beginning to get very Verb - Past Participle of sitting by her sister on the bank, and of having nothing to do: once or twice she had peeped into the book her sister was reading, but it had no Noun - Plural or Noun - Plural in it, 'and what is the use of a book,' thought Alice 'without pictures or conversation?'

So she was Preposition or subordinating conjunction in her own mind (as well as she could, for the hot day made her feel very sleepy and stupid), whether the pleasure of making a Modal would be worth the trouble of getting up and picking the daisies, when suddenly a White Rabbit with pink eyes ran close by her.

There was Adjective so very remarkable in that; nor did Alice think it so very much out of the way to hear the Rabbit say to itself, 'Oh dear! Oh dear! I shall be late!' (when she thought it over afterwards, it occurred to her that she ought to have wondered at this, but at the time it all seemed quite natural); but when the Rabbit actually took a watch out of its waistcoat-pocket, and Verb - Past Tense at it, and then hurried on, Alice started to her feet, for it flashed Preposition or subordinating conjunction her mind that she had never before seen a rabbit with either a waistcoat-pocket, or a watch to take out of it, and Verb - Present Tense with curiosity, she ran across the field after it, and fortunately was just in time to see it pop down a large rabbit-hole under the hedge.
