

Halloween tales

1. Adjective

Halloween tales

There once was a _____ Adjective, a goblin, a witch, a ghoul, and a vampire. All of these monsters liked to go out at minight on Halloween, and scare trick-or-treaters. One year on Halloween night, all the monsters got together. They decided to split up to cover more ground. But this October, the monsters had some competition. A Jack'O Lantern, a skeleton, and a family of mummies. Both monster teams were going to scare in the same area, so they decided to have a competition. Wichever monster team could make more children scream would win something from the other team, and get to keep thier item. The witch gave up her broomstick, and the Jack'O Lantern gave up his matching pumpkin. The superstition was on for which team would win.