Halloween Fun

One day I wanted to go for a run. It was starting to get dark though, and I was nervous about returning before sun down. Despite my concern, I changed into my gym clothes and put on some reflective gear. As I stepped outside, I noticed a strange odor coming from the neighbors house and walked over to make sure the cats hadn't gotten into the trash again. Just as I stepped around the corner my head banged into a Adjective mess hanging from the ceiling. I stepped back to see a human head dangling from a rope attached to the garage ceiling . Before I could stop it, a strident scream erupted from my chest as I tripped and fell backwards into the trash cans.
