Ben Franklin Autobiography

I have been the more particular in this description of my journey, and shall be so of my first entry into that city, that you may in your mind _____Verb - Non 3rd Person Singular Present_____ such unlikely beginnings with the figure I have since made there. I was in my working dress, my best clothes being to come round by sea. I was _____Adjective_____ from my _____Noun_____; my pockets were _____Verb - Past Participle_____ out with shirts and _____Noun_____, and I knew no soul nor where to _____Verb_____ for lodging. I was _____Verb - Past Participle_____ with _____Verb - Present Tense_____, _____Verb - Present Tense_____, and _____Verb_____ of rest, I was very _____Adjective_____; and my whole stock of cash consisted of a Dutch dollar, and about a shilling in copper. The latter I gave the people of the boat for my passage, who at first _____Verb - Past Tense_____ it, on account of my rowing; but I _____Verb - Past Tense_____ on their taking it. A man being sometimes more _____Adjective_____ when he has but a little money than when he has plenty, perhaps through _____Noun_____ of being thought to have but little.

then I _____Preposition or subordinating conjunction_____ up the street, _____Preposition or subordinating conjunction_____ about till near the market house I _____Determiner_____ a boy with bread. I had made many a meal on bread, and inquiring where he got it, I went _____Adverb_____ to the baker's he _____Verb - Past Tense_____ me to, in Second Street, and asked for biscuit, intending such as we had in Boston; but they, it seems, were not made in Philadelphia. Then I _____Verb - Past Tense_____ for a three-penny loaf, and was told they had none such. So not considering or knowing the difference of money, and the greater _____Noun_____ nor the names of his bread, I bade him give me three-penny worth of any sort. He gave me, accordingly, three puffy rolls. I was _____Verb - Past Participle_____ at the _____Noun_____, but took it, and, having no room in my pockets, walked of with a roll under each arm, and eating the other. Thus I _____Verb - Past Tense_____ up Market Street as far as Fourth Street, passing by the door of Mr. Read, my future wife's father; when she, standing at the door, _____Verb - Past Tense_____ me, and thought I made, as I _____Adverb_____ did, a most _____Adjective_____, _____Adjective_____ _____Noun_____.
