The princess brat

Once upon a time there was a princess named Proper Noun. She was always grumpy and whenever the king Proper Noun and the Queen Proper Noun told her what to do she would always reply with Noun. She would yell and complain about her food. I hate Noun. They taste bad and the peasants don't have to eat it. Honey the king and queen would reply, the peasants can't afford same noun. The princess would grumble all day and all night. I'm too tired to do that. One day a magical Noun came and told the princess that if she didn't stop grumbling she would lose all of her

Noun. The princess didn't listen and she kept on saying Noun to people. Soon Noun fell off and she have it anymore. Then she remembered what the magical Noun told her and she started to obey. She got her

Didn't

Noun Back and she stopped complaining. She ate all of her Noun and she was happy. The princess lived

Happily Noun after. The end
