The Real Story of Momotaro

The Real Story of

Here is an Adjective man and an Adjective woman. They live next to a Location. One day, a Food comes down the river. The man cuts into the Food and a boy comes out! His name is Momotaro. He is strong and brave.

In Onigashima, there are strong ogres. Momotaro wants to fight the ogres. The old man and old woman say, "Please stay here!" Momotaro is strong and brave so he isn't scared. The old woman gives Momotaro kibidango. Momotaro goes to Onigashima.

A monkey says, "Hello Momotaro!" Momotaro says, "How are you?" The monkey says, "I'm good." Momotaro gives the monkey kibidango. Then they say, "We are good friends. Let's go to Onigashima!"

A dog says, "Hello Momotaro!" Momotaro says, "Hi, dog. Eat this, it's kibidango." Then they say, "We are good friends! Let's go to Onigashima!"

A bird says, "Hello Momotaro!" Momotaro says, "Hi, bird." The bird says, "Kibidango, please." Then they say, "We are good friends. Let's go to Onigashima!"

Momotaro, the monkey, the dog, and the bird all get into a boat and go to Onigashima. Momotaro says, "Look! Onigashima!" The monkey says, "Oh, yes!" The dog says, "We are strong!" The bird says, "We are brave!"

They fight the ogres. They all say, "We are strong and brave!" The ogres say, "We are strong!" Momotaro fights 100 ogres. After the fight, Momotaro says, "That's OK. We are good friends."

Momotaro goes home. His family says, "We are happy! We are happy!" Everyone says, "We are very happy!"
