Boy Meets Girl

There once was a Adjective boy who had a big crush on a Adjective girl. They met because he was interested in studying abroad in Poland and she helped him with his application. The boy was Adverb nervous to ask her out, but he knew that if he didn't, an opportunity of a lifetime of happiness could be passing him up.

So he worked up the courage, and messaged her via facebook to ask her out on the date. When she read his invitation she became really Verb - Past Participle. She thought to herself "Boy, how Adverb lucky I am that he asked me out."

When she responded to his invitation he felt nervous, because he had to plan their first date. He decided to take her to Proper Noun BBQ. There they enjoyed Adjective food and decided that another date would be a Adjective idea. After the first date, she knew that she Adverb like the Adjective guy.
