Carat Mad Libs

Once upon a time, there was a Adjective media agency that worked for the Adjective - Superlative liquor company in the world. This company tended to have outlandish dreams that were unfortunately... out of this world. The beautiful media agency would attempt to reach these goals only to Verb since they were of course, unattainable. One day, the media agency decided enough was enough, they were going to put Noun - Plural in place to create measurable, Adjective goals that would make everyone happy. The hardest part, getting everyone to agree on these goals! Verb - Present Tense into the future, the media agency worked so hard to get the liquor company to follow through on a couple key Noun - Plural. Most important, a strict, well-thought out media brief!
