Running for President

1.	Noun
2.	Verb - Base Form
3.	Noun
4.	Noun - Plural
5.	Verb - Base Form
6.	Noun
7.	Noun
8.	Verb - Base Form
9.	Verb - Base Form
10.	Verb - Base Form
11.	Noun
	Noun
13.	Noun
	Noun

Running for President

My, John, knew what he was doing when he convinced me to run for President of the United States. When I asked John, my trusted advisor, to me with some advice, he quickly give me some good tips. John said, "Think about what the people need to hear from their They need someone to look out for their best interest. When you show them your for handling the nation's problems, the people will be to you. If you hide behind your office desk, they may think you have some secrets to hide and are full of" I thought this was good advice, and I opened the notes on my iPad so I could write his words down.
John stated, "Instead of slowly starting your campaign for Presidency, your staff to move quickly. Don't the problems that citizens are worried about. They need to know you won' push those issues aside. You have the power and motivation to the world from a sad and dreary place, to a successful, happy place. The world has many limitations and is in a rough right now. We need you to make the U.S. a better place." John has such a good way of motivating me. I can't back down now and be a I started to realize I could really do this. I could go from being the Senator of California to the President of the United States. This Noun to myself made me realize that I could accomplish anything I set my mind to. I shuffled the papers on my desk and organized the of objects on my desk. I thought to myself, "This could be the beginning of something amazing."

©2025 WordBlanks.com · All Rights Reserved.