Super Smash Bros.

My Adjective - Ends in EST game of all time is Super Smash Bros. There is just something about Nintendo's Adjective - Ends in EST all-stars going Noun to same noun with each other and settling who the real Noun is. Could the winner be Mario? Everyone's favorite Adjective plumber who Verb - Present ends in S the Adjective Bowser to win back his love, Princess fruit? Perhaps it will be the hero of Noun clad in his ever so Adjective green Noun, Link, in order to save Princess Zelda from the very Adjective Gannondorf, the Noun King. Or the classic Noun Verb - Present ends in ING ape, Donkey Kong could Verb - Base Form the show. He may not seem like a tough Noun, but once he Verb - Present ends in S a powered up Noun on the back of your Noun, you'll be sure to Verb - Base Form twice! One of my favorites is the pink Noun, Kirby. He is able to suck in Noun - Plural, swallow them, and then use Noun - Plural that they were able to use. This is an ability sure to make foes Verb - Base Form at the sight! Really, all of these stars could win, but I'm placing my Noun on the Adjective Noun monster, Pikachu. He may seem Adjective on the outside, but his pure speed and Noun attacks are quite a challenge to face. Just make sure you look out when he yells, "exclamation!!!" as a Noun cloud is bound to form and Verb - Base Form its power straight down to the Noun!
