Catch A Pike!

There I was, on a misty June day on Lake Vermilion in Minnesota. The _____ Adjective eagles were gracefully _____ Verb - Present Tense fish out of the water and I was trolling for walleye. The fishing was slow due to the rain and I was sitting relaxed in the boat chair. I had just happened to look up at a eagle when I felt a violent strike and a bunch of _____ Adjective weight on my _____ Noun. " _____ Interjection !" I yelled and _____ Adverb set the hook and started _____ Verb - Present Tense in the line while my pole was bent way into the cork.

I fought that _____ Noun fish for what seemed like forever before I finally got it up to the boat. I got my first look at it as my grandpa reached to net it, but the pike _____ Adverb _____ Verb - Past Tense under the boat just out of the net's reach. After I fought the _____ Adjective for a while more I finally got it back up next to the boat where my grandpa netted it. He lifted it up out of the water and into the boat where I removed the treble hooks and measured it. It measured 38 inches and was a mean fish.

"Nice fish!" my dad yelled as he took my picture with the fish, I put the _____ Noun fish into the _____ Coordinating conjunction and continued on fishin'. I learned a lot and caught a whole mess of fish on that trip but I never will forget the day I caught that big northern pike.
