A Beautiful Valentine's Day

I woke up the morning of February 14. The sun was _____Verb - Present ends in ING_____, the snow had melted away, and I could _____Verb - Base Form_____ breakfast as Mom made it downstairs.

I _____Verb - Past Tense_____ down the stairs and into the kitchen, fully expecting to find Mom standing at the stove, flipping pancakes. But no, it was my sister, _____First Name of a Person_____, and she was toasting waffles.

"Where's Mom?" I asked with disappointment, sinking into a chair.

"She had to run to the grocery store," Kara said, putting two frozen waffles on a plate. She held it out to me.

"No Valentine's breakfast?"

"No."
