My Life in Prison

It's been years since I've seen the world. Ever since that day on ends in ING a Noun without consent. I shouldn't be Verb - Past Tense up here in this dark and cell, but I guess I was in theplace at thetime. I've spent years here already, and have started to get used to how life verb - Present ends in S Noun - Plural take us everywhere whenever we do anything and we eat nothing but Noun for food. We even have to together, but I learned real not to should know Life in the Noun, that's what inmates call jail, is getting Adjective-ends in R as mo time, but it is still a living Just last week, I needed to remove a guy's Noun - Plural with a pair of Noun - Plural just to prove my worth to everybody. The things we nee to here are Adjective and traumatizing, but I guess it's what I deserve. Not one goes by without me thinking of you, Thinking of you makes all this bearable.
