The Fault in Our Stars

It was Adverb. The whole thing. Every Noun worse than the last. I just kept Verb - Present ends in ING about Verb - Present ends in ING him, Verb - Present ends in ING what would happen, if anyone would Verb - Base Form. In the last weeks, we'd been Verb - Past Tense to Verb - Present ends in ING our time together in recollection, but that was not nothing: The pleasure of remembering had been taken from me, because there was no longer anyone to remember with. It felt like losing your Noun meant losing the memory itself, as if the things we'd done were less Adjective and Adjective than they had been hours before.
