BI Formulary Disclaimer

The MLR team is very [_____ Adjective _____] about using the correct disclaimer for formulary [_____ Noun _____].

Here's how it should read: Source: [_____ Part of Body _____] OF THE BODY] Formulary, health plan or NOUN listed above, and/or data on file, [_____ Full Name of a Person _____] OF PERSON IN ROOM], Inc. as of [_____ Date in history _____] in History].

Placement on [_____ Noun _____] does not establish clinical comparability of [_____ Noun _____], including safety and [_____ Noun _____], and is not a guarantee of full or [_____ Adjective _____] coverage and/or payment. Contact health plan, state, or [NAME OF PERSON AT BI] for most ADJECTIVE information, as it may change without [_____ NOUN _____].

If piece is [ADJECTIVE] and mentions other trademark(s) not owned by [person in room], please [VERB] a line after standard source and disclaimer language block above and [VERB] the following: Boehringer Ingelheim Pharmaceuticals, Inc. either owns or uses the [PLURAL NOUN] Tadjenta and Jentadueto under license. Other referenced trademarks are VERB (PAST TENSE) by third parties.

Follow these MLR rules and you will always have a [ADJECTIVE] AND [ADJECTIVE] approval process for your formulary [PLURAL NOUN].
