Maddie's cookie

Today is a sunny day. Sally, a girl of 9 years old, with grey Part of Body and Adjective hair, loves sunny days. She called her friend Maddie, a girl of 9 years old, with blue eyes and blond Part of Body, if she wanted to Verb - Base Form with her:

-Hello? answered Maddie.

-Hello Maddie,it's Sally. Would you like to play with me? It's such a good day!

-Oh,OK Sally. Would you like to come to my house?

-Oh, thanks! I love your house. It's Adjective, beautiful, amazing, awesome,... Can I go now?

-Of course!

Sally Verb - Past Tense to Maddie's Noun and knocked:

-Come on in, said Maddie. Would you like to taste my new cookie? I made it.

-OK

Maddie, who knows that Sally loves eating, gave her one. Sally took a big bite.

-Chew Adverb before you swallow it, I put a little too much of peanut and...

-Did you just said peanut!?

-Yes...

-I'm allergic to peanut!

-Oh, how could Pronoun forgotten! I was thinking to show you my new painting, I'm very proud of it.

What do we do now?

Sally though about it for a moment and said:

-I take two Advil pills.

-We don't have any at home. What do you do too?

Sally thought really hard about it and said:

-I take a glass of milk!

-But, said Maddie, I'm allergic to milk, and my mom drank all of it this morning. What do we do now?

Sally noticed something and said:

-Did you just say that you are allergic to milk?

-Yes?

-So you have an epipen?

-Yes! So I give it to _____ Pronoun so we can play after!

-I didn't know that you were that smart!

Sally used the epipen, Maddie showed her the painting, and they played together all day!
