Tales of a 4th Grade Nothing Ch 5

Ralph arrived first. He's really           Adjective          . And he isn't even four years old. He doesn't say much either. He           Verb - Present ends in S           and           Verb - Present ends in S           a lot, though. Usually his mouth is stuffed full of something.

So the first thing Ralph did was wander into the           Noun          . He looked around for something to eat. But Grandma was guarding the place. She kept telling him "No ... No ... must wait until the other           Noun           come."

Jennie           Verb - Past Tense           next. She was           Verb - Present ends in ING                     Adjective           white gloves and shoes. She even carried a pocketbook. Besides that she had on dirty jeans and an old sweater. Her mother           Verb - Past Tense           for her clothes but said she couldn't do anything with Jennie lately-especially since she had taken to Verb - Present ends in ING          .

"What does she           Verb - Base Form          ?" I asked, thinking about furniture or toys or stuff like that.

"She bites people," Jennie's mother said. "But you don't have to worry about it unless her teeth go through the skin. Otherwise it's perfectly safe."

I thought, poor old Fudge! He can't even bite back since he hasn't got any top front teeth. I looked at Jennie. She seemed so innocent. It was hard to believe she was a           Noun          .

Sam came last. He carried a big           Noun           for Fudge but he was           Verb - Present ends in ING          .

"It's just a stage he's going through," his mother explained. "Everything scares him. Especially           Noun - Plural                     Noun - Plural          . But he'll be fine. Won't you, Sam?"
