Sunday in the Park

It was a beautiful day one Sunday in May. While discussing the _____ Noun of fun things to do, we decided it would be fun to go on a _____ Noun. So we gathered together the food, the drinks, the cooler, and the _____ Adjective cups, utensils, and dishes. Tom suggested we take the T to the Boston _____ Proper Noun Garden. We got off at the T stop and were entertained by a very funny _____ Noun. Finally, we got to the park and _____ Noun did we run into? Well, it was _____ Adjective friend from school. He was having his own picnic in the park. We did not want to impose but we asked if he minded if we join him. He said he would be honored to have us join him. All of a sudden, a huge thunder cloud appeared in the sky and I began to _____ Adjective. I did not want to be sitting outside under trees during a thunderstorm. We quickly packed up our things and ran to catch the T before the storm started. As soon as the door of the train closed, the skies opened up! I was so happy to be on the train!
