Chemiluminscense

When I woke up one morning I felt as if something was Adjective. I went into the kitchen and immediately knew I was correct. Noun, Guts what a gory sight my kitchen was. The real question is how did it get like this. I try to convince myself that it was a Noun but as I begin to stare at the dead body of my wife I begin to get sudden snapshots of the prior night. Me and had got into a fight and it got heated. We yelled and she slapped me and that's when everything went black. I remember watching CSI and seeing how killers clean up the crime scene and I right away began to start scrubbing the floors on my hands and knees. Oh how that blood was so thick. When my neighbor heard a loud commotion she called the cop and I was arrested. I thought I might get away but because of how advanced the forensic specialist were I ended up getting caught and charged with the murder of my wife and sentenced to life in prison all because of a luminol test
