Periscope WordBlanks

There's a Adjective new free app called Periscope! Periscope works on iPhones, iPads, and Android devices. It's designed so that anybody can broadcast live to the Noun. If you follow someone on Periscope, then you can receive a Noun each time they go live.

While viewing a Periscope broadcast in the app, you can type in comments. You can also tap the screen and little Noun - Plural will float up the right side. Broadcasters like to ask for Repeat Last Noun - Plural. Seeing them float up the screen make them feel Adjective.

Anyone can replay a broadcast for Number hours after it was live. After that, the recording is no longer available for viewing online. However, you can choose to save a broadcast to your Noun roll. Unfortunately, that saved video does not have comments and Noun - Plural.

Who knows what you might see happening live on Periscope. You might see someone broadcasting from their Noun. You might see someone speaking at a Event. You might see a teacher showing his favorite Noun - Plural. You might see a geek sharing her favorite Noun trick. You might see some guy named First Name read Mad Libs. You just never know what you might see, but you'll likely see some Adjective camerawork.
