Psalm for the Boundary Waters

Bless the Lord, O My Soul

God, my God, how great you are!

Beautifully, gloriously clothed.

Dressed up in sunshine,

The morning sky stretched out like a tent for you.

You built your palace on the deep lakes,

You commandeered winds as messengers,

You set earth on a firm foundation.

Nothing can shake it, ever.

You blanketed the earth with rivers, covered the land with deep waters.

You roared and the water ran away - your thunder crash put the waters to flight.

You set boundaries between earth and sea, never again will earth be flooded.

You started the springs and rivers, sent them flowing among the land.

All the wild animals now drink their fill, wild creatures quench their thirst.

Along the riverbanks, birds build their nests, loons make their voices heard.

You

water the land from heavenly springs; earth is supplied with plenty of water.

God's trees are well watered, the pine trees God planted.

Birds build their nests in those trees; look - the eagles at home in the treetop.

Moose climb about the paths; chipmunks burrow among the rocks.

The moon keeps track of the seasons, the sun is in charge of each day.

When it's dark and night takes over, all the forest creatures come out.

The wolves howl for their prey clamoring to God for their supper.

What a wildly wonderful world, God!

You made it all, with Wisdom at your side.

You made earth overflow with your wonderful creations.

Oh, look - the deep, wide lakes, brimming with fish past counting, _____ and _____ and _____.

_____ gladly paddle those waters.

The glory of God - let it last forever!

Let God enjoy all creation!

Oh, let me sing to God all my life long, sing hymns to my God as long as I live.

Bless

the Lord, O My Soul!
