

wolf

1. Adjective
2. Verb Int
3. Adjective
4. Noun
5. Noun
6. Sound
7. Animal
8. Animal
9. Adjective
10. Verb - Past Tense
11. Noun
12. Noun
13. Noun
14. Verb Int
15. Verb - Present Ends In Ing
16. Verb - Present Ends In Ing
17. Noun - Plural
18. Verb - Base Form
19. Noun - Plural
20. Verb - Present Ends In Ing
21. Part Of Body
22. Verb Int
23. Verb - Present Ends In Ing

wolf

Two _____^{Adjective} college students, David Kessler and Jack Goodman, _____^{verb.int} across the Yorkshire moors. As darkness falls, they stop for the night at a pub called "The _____^{Adjective} _____^{Noun}". Jack notices a five-pointed _____^{Noun} on the wall. When he asks about it, the pubgoers stop talking and become hostile, telling them to keep to the road and beware of the full moon. The pair decide to leave, but while talking they wander off the road onto the moors.

Jack and David hear sinister _____^{sound}, which seem to be getting closer. They start back to the Slaughtered Lamb but realize that they are now lost. The boys are attacked by a supernaturally large _____^{Animal} and Jack is killed. The attacker is shot by some of the pubgoers but instead of a dead _____^{Animal}, David sees the corpse of a _____^{Adjective} man lying next to him. David survives the mauling and is taken to a hospital in London.

When David wakes up three weeks later, he does not remember what happened. He is _____^{Verb - Past Tense} by police Inspector Villiers who tells him that he and Jack were attacked by an escaped lunatic. David insists that they were actually attacked by a large wolf.

Jack appears to David as a reanimated _____^{Noun} to explain that they were attacked by a werewolf, and that David is now a werewolf. Jack urges David to kill _____^{Noun} before the next full moon, not only because Jack is cursed to exist in a state of living death for as long as the bloodline of the werewolf that attacked them survives, but also to prevent David from inflicting the same fate on anyone else.

Dr. Hirsch takes a trip to the Slaughtered Lamb to see if what David has told him is true. When asked about the incident, the pubgoers deny any knowledge of David, Jack, or their Noun. But one distraught pubgoer speaks to Dr. Hirsch outside the pub and says that David should not have been taken away, and that he and everyone else will be in danger when he verb int.

Upon his release from the hospital, David moves in with Alex Price, a pretty young nurse who grew infatuated with him in the hospital. Jack, in an advanced stage of decay, appears to David to warn him that he will turn into a werewolf the next day. Jack again advises David to take his own life to avoid Verb - Present ends in ING innocent people.

When the full moon rises, David painfully transforms into a werewolf. He prowls the streets and the London Underground Verb - Present ends in ING Londoners. When he wakes in the morning, he is naked on the floor of the wolf cage at London Zoo, has no memory of his Noun - Plural, and is unharmed by the resident wolves.

David realizes that Jack was right about everything and that he is responsible for the murders of the night before.
After

failing to get himself arrested, David tries to _____ Verb - Base Form his _____ Noun - Plural with a pocket knife.

David sees Jack, in a yet more advanced stage of decay, outside an adult cinema in Piccadilly Circus. Inside,

Jack is accompanied by David's victims from the previous night. They all insist that he must commit suicide before turning into a werewolf again. While talking with them, David transforms and goes on another

_____ Verb - Present ends in ING spree. After bursting out of the cinema, biting off Inspector Villiers' _____ Part of Body _____ in the process, a horrific melee ensues. David is ultimately cornered in an alley by police. Alex tries to calm him down by telling him that she _____ verb int him. Though he is apparently placated, he is shot and killed when he lunges forward, returning to human form in front of a _____ Verb - Present ends in ING Alex.